Sports Medicine – Open

Stagnation before exit: performance progression and retention in youth track and field

Atle G. Guttormsen, School of Economics and Business, Norwegian University of Life Sciences (NMBU), Ås, Norway

Additional file 1

Table S1. Sample flow.

Step	n
Athletes born 1998–2006 in the registry extract	32 447
With ≥1 approved result at age 13–14	12 938
Also competing at ages 15–16 (landmark condition)	4 910
With known sex	4 909
born 2006 (used only for the activity-at-≥18 outcome)	434
Born 1998–2005	4 475
excluded: no scorable main-group points in both windows	578
excluded: sex × event-group cells with <20 athletes	20
Primary sample (born 1998–2005)	3 877
active seniors	654
with exact birth date (H2 analyses)	3 850
Exit-aligned trajectory subsamples (performance / volume)	1 116 / 1 523
Inclusive best-group exposure sample	3 990
Activity-at-≥18 outcome sample (primary sample plus born 2006)	4 244

The completed STROBE checklist accompanies the submission; the time-stamped analysis plan (committed before estimation) is available with the analysis code. Abbreviation: STROBE, Strengthening the Reporting of Observational Studies in Epidemiology.